

SAINT PAUL COLLEGE

A Community & Technical College

HONORING 100 YEARS OF EDUCATION

October 2009

Dear Friends,

Minnesota's state budget is extremely thin. Every public sector has felt the brunt of this economy, including the Minnesota State College and Universities. Despite this recession, Saint Paul College has a very important milestone to celebrate – its 100th anniversary.

The College's administration is determined to mark this occasion without using taxpayers' dollars. In order to do that, we are appealing to the community for sponsorships.

Saint Paul College's Centennial will celebrate 100 years of educating diverse generations in the Saint Paul and surrounding metro area. The celebration provides us an opportunity to celebrate our strengths and set the stage for future initiatives.

I hope you will give this invitation for sponsorship serious consideration. As a community, we have so much to celebrate together.

Donovan Schwichtenberg, President

HONORING 100 YEARS OF EDUCATION

SAINT PAUL COLLEGE EVOLVES OVER 100 YEARS

1923 St. Paul Vocational High School at Jackson and 14th Streets.

YESTERDAY

Our beginnings go back to 1910 when a fee-based manual training school was founded by the Saint Paul Builders Exchange. We operated under the auspices of the Saint Paul Institute and Saint Paul Public Schools.

Over the last century, our institution has operated under various names—including the Rice Industrial School and Madison Training School—and at various locations. In 1919, St. Paul Vocational High School became the official name, and it began operating as a separate entity of the Saint Paul Public Schools system. By 1945, legislation created the state’s AVTI (Area Vocational-Technical Institutes) system and St. Paul Technical Vocational Institute, or “TVI” for short, operated until 1989 when it came under the direction of Minnesota’s Technical College System and was renamed St. Paul Technical College.

By 1964, we had out-grown our old location and in 1966 moved to our current location at the corner of Marshall Avenue and John Ireland Boulevard.

In 1995, as part of a restructuring of the state’s public higher education system, St. Paul Technical College became part of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities system.

And in 2002, we added a new mission—to provide a two-year, baccalaureate transfer program. That change led to our current name and role: Saint Paul College—A Community & Technical College.

TODAY

This is an exciting time for the College. We are experiencing unprecedented growth and now offer 34 associate degree programs, and 70 occupational certificate and diploma programs. We’ve wrapped up Phase I of our third major remodeling project. In 1989, we added the west tower to the campus, and in 2000, we completed a major remodeling of the main building’s first floor. In 2008, Phase I of a $23 million project was completed in our lower level and we’re currently working on Phase II which will include new landscaping.

1988 A new tower was added to the present location at Marshall Avenue and John Ireland Boulevard.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION A ROLE FOR PRIVATE SUPPORT

We invite you to join Saint Paul College as we celebrate our 100th anniversary of serving the community. Be a part of our long-standing commitment to education by becoming a sponsor of our Centennial Open House on September 9, 2010. Our reunion will be open to the public and will feature history displays, guided tours of the facilities, refreshments and reunions with old friends and teachers.
